Pamela J. Scholefield, P.E. Esq.

Pam started her career as an engineer for General Electric in 1984. During that time she fulfilled numerous positions such as manufacturing engineer, automation engineer and electrical power distribution product sales engineer, eventually becoming the Area Manager for the Electrical Distribution and Control division involved in large commercial and public works projects. While attending law school at the University of San Diego she continued working full time for local electrical distributors as a GE equipment specialist.

After receiving her J. D. in 1998, she focused her practice working closely within the construction industry. She practices in markets where she is able to capitalize on her already extensive construction background.

Pam graduated with honors from the University of Florida with a B.S in Industrial & Systems Engineering.

She received her J.D. from University of San Diego SOL and graduated cum laude.

Attributes:

Holds an active Professional Engineer's License from the State of Colorado.
